

U.S. economy; that its decisions, more than even so-called market forces, which is a sham notion under managed competition in any case, affect everybody's lives and well-being; that within the decision-making process delegated to the Federal Reserve, the Board of Governors clearly dominates the process; that within that Board of Governors the chairman, and this is not intended to single out Mr. Greenspan but to apply to all past and future chairmen, that the chairman dominates the Board.

This does not seem to concern this Congress, but history will record the result; and the people of America may not like that result. Our founders and our constitution carefully limited the power of the President and of the Congress, but now we have an unelected Board of Governors with power, for good or for mischief, immense power, over our national monetary policy.
